

THESES:

- 0 DesignCommunication = communication integrated into development (growth).
to accept the Internet as a kind of infrastructure that may do the most for the sake of Survival-Continuance-Development, i.e. it creates equal opportunity and enables the democratization of knowledge and technology never ever experienced before.
- 1
- 2 to find the common denominator, the minimum and maximum rules (solutions) within the entire human race, and to accept the common currency temporarily.
to make every existing language official - including sign language -, and to improve the optimal translating technology as soon as possible, in the name of planetary solidarity. To create the SCD Wiki environment, by conceptualizing the common denominator and the minimum and maximum rules.
- 3
- 4 to make the software / project / environment that provides the SCD (namely Survival-Continuance-Development) widely known, and to operate it as a supplementary economical model as soon as possible, initially for children and the elderly who could do with value-sustaining and value-creating social presence (provisionally with "state" subsidy).
- 5 to support and to use mass collaboration, Wikipedia and Wikinomics as default approach on every level (provisionally with "state" subsidy).
- 6 to introduce the SCD program to educational institutes, from primary school to the highest levels & to make it accessible for the whole society the way e.g. Wikipedia does recently (provisionally with "state" subsidy).
- 7 to make the society open and accountable, without specific direction or orientation, namely to make the information accessible for all.
to redefine the procurability of money in the agglomeration of SCD, accountableness and openness. The SCD is fully aware of the value that all things, on a local and planetary scale have, thus the social participation of people will be steadily evaluated in credits, scores, smileys, whatever, that would even be allotted to material goods.
- 8

9 to be prepared for the direct democracy (and though it may seem to be a paradox, this could be realized provisionally via state communications, since - with a bit of good intent - the state in democracy equals community, even today)

10 this would be followed by the first year of direct democracy. The assumptions, local and global problems would be discussed, then resolved by means of the SCD, of various open source coded interfaces, and of community forums. The one year that it takes today for a law to be framed, would be no more than one month in direct democracy. Law is not constant, but constantly changing, complying with the moral development of the society and with the help of the SCD. Law is not a prohibition or rules - but resolution!

11 the workplaces that can be substituted by infrastructure will be terminated. Brand new, free, independent and new-type workplaces will be created. SCD helps monitoring the amount of contributors, balancing and evaluating the importance of a raised problem, of course by considering the local and planetary interests.

12 the recent model of money, of its institutions and of its social background would cease completely, it would exist no more as an independent entity. The descendant of money would be social value judgment (let's call it S.V.J. by now), that could be materialized anywhere or anytime, according to the future requirements.

13 territorial boundaries would terminate on Earth. This would open the door to all nations' culture and language to develop and to live peacefully within the Planetary Whole, without revisionist ideas that refer to wars and the past: The Planet will be your homeland, your garden, to be protected and attended properly.

13+1 beyond all this, everyone would be allowed to live the way they lived before, though free and open. They would love and desire another person, they would care for their children and listen to music, make excursions, ride the bike, eat, sleep, read Greek philosophers and contemporary writers in other languages as well, with any cultural affiliation, they would practice their religion the way they did before, of course with cultural, philosophical and mental approach (instead of the authoritative and materialized ideological of nowadays), and all this with honor, equal opportunities and secure living, since their freely chosen job stays for ever with the help of the SCD environment, whereas their vocation, workplace and life are nothing else than Planet Earth.

I had to go all the time / I took you with me / you wanted it or not / on the wings of promises / to the war against tomorrow / white rock / resounds no more / the warmth you were about to get / is soaked by sand and wind / here within / but while I travel: I AM / I had to go always / and this would never ever change / fear is gone / depart I must even if / I never arrive / I will be light and shadow
